

ScrollReader in a nutshell

by Mhortai

One press eats a whole stack. ScrollReader bulk-consumes six scroll types — Wildcard Transmog Scroll, Sealed Traveler's Map, and the Scrolls of Mastery, the Delver, Reach and Bounty — server-side, every bag copy in one go.

How to use it

- The bar: six buttons, one per scroll, with live counts. Click one → the stack is gone. Drag the bar anywhere; `/sr` bar hides it.
- Keybinds: ESC → Key Bindings → ScrollReader. Bind any of the six; a keypress works exactly like a click.
- Read everything: the minimap button or `/sr` — all six types at once.
- Dungeon exit (new in 1.3.0): leave a 5-man and, ~5s later, Mastery and Delver are read automatically if you hold 300+. `/sr` dungeon toggles it.

Worth knowing

- No confirmation — a press spends the whole stack instantly, and it cannot be undone.
- The dungeon auto-read spends the whole stack once 300 is reached, and keeps re-sending until your bags are clean.
- Maps go 500 per server call and need all your flight paths first; ScrollReader auto-repeats until the bags are clean.
- Nothing works in combat; queued reads resume after.
- `/sr` count shows what you're holding.
